Crawford County Hometown Collaboration Initiative

In the winter of 2016, Crawford County was selected to be part of the Hometown Collaboration Initiative (HCI) program offered through the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs for communities of 25,000 people or less. As a part of the initiative, the Logansport team conducted a community forum at the Crawford County 4-H Fairgrounds on August 22, 2017. About 40 community members participated.

The purpose of the forum was to share the survey results and capture ideas on how to build on the placemaking, economic and leadership assets of the community.

During the forum, attendees participated in three rounds of discussions, where they were asked about placemaking items critical for making the community an attractive place to live in the future, strategies to achieve their vision of a thriving economy and how to create a new generation of leaders and get more people involved in community improvement activities.

Our Team

The Crawford County HCI team consists of a diverse set of community members interested in fostering collaboration to make Crawford County even better. The team has been meeting since January preparing to select a building block on which to focus. These include developing a new generation of leaders, growing small business and entrepreneurs and enhancing community design and public spaces.

In addition to the forum, the HCI team surveyed local community members with nearly 600 responses.

Placemaking

During the Placemaking round, community members were asked if they agreed with the top three placemaking priorities from the community survey, and if not, what they felt the community should prioritize. Each table picked a placemaking priority and then gave 2-3 strategies to improve this priority in the community. Forum participants voted individually for their top three items.
